Butterfly In The Wind
A child is a butterfly in the wind:
Some can fly higher than others,
but each one flies
the best that it can.
Why compare one against the other?
Each one is different.
Each one is special.
Each one is beautiful.

To the Class of 1996,

You are now leaving the confines of the Chester High School and beginning the next major phase of your life.

We have provided you with a sound educational foundation. It is however, only a beginning. To be an employable, productive citizen in our rapidly advancing technological world will require lifelong learning.

As you now move on and begin working more independently at creating your life, please remember there are no quick fixes. Daily positive actions and work build into good habits. These good habits will help you to grow and make your life a happy one.

You have been a super class! I wish you all the best in the future.

Sincerely,

Paul B. Reh

As you walk into a world so unknown
 The wind is hard and your hair is blown As your parents have to let you go So you can fulfill your ambitions and learn what you need to know
 As a downfall of new things come bombarding down on your brain
 As you feel like you are lost in the tormenting rain.
 Remember me,
 remember as well
 We who made you able to tell That you're a graduate of high school and how you are going to college as if it were some magical spell.
 So now walk on,
 move forward with the pride in your heart
 And know in your soul that we never did part.

Caitlin O.

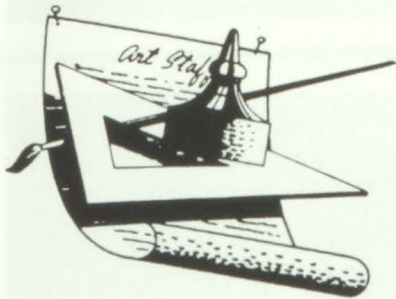

*We will stand together,
 Through thick & thin.
 We will be together,
 For better or worse.
 We will sleep together,
 Till the end of time.
 We will laugh together,
 At what was his & mine.
 We will sit together,
 And think as one.
 We will live together,
 When the day is done.
 We will cry together,
 When something's.
 We will see together
 A movie about us.
 We will eat together,
 Until everything is gone.
 We will fight together,
 Like couples have done.
 We will come together,
 together as one TOGETHER!!!!!!*

The yearbook staff wishes you the best of luck in all your future endeavors.

The tides, the will of the moon, will hardly change before us. Although alchemists will formulate plans of peace, 14 karat gold will have to do. Materialism will feed like a wolf on the bone-picked skeleton of virtue. A perpetual eclipse will wrap us in portentous darkness lying like a heavy blanket over our senses, our eyes crazy-glued shut, subsistent existence, in a well-like shell of dissolution over value. "Diamonds are forever" or so they say. I'll have you know that they give a tart flavor to champagne. (keep reading)

Make-up covered mirrors lying to you, more concerned over "are those Bugle Boys that you're wearing" than your heart's hue. Will we ever know true love, our minds unadulterated by thoughts of the plague of our age. How tired, veritably exhausted are you of "when I was a little boy, we didn't have to worry about that" or "It used to be that when adults said something, kids listened and respected them." We have a right to be angry, we have the right to resent the fact that our inheritance is a troubled world and our parents gave it to us to fix up or get swallowed by it. "All Apologies" I say so count your blessings that graphite and loose-leaf are the sounding board for our discontent. (keep reading)

Pessimism is hope's quicksand. Optimism, even on the cusp of being lost by many is all that we have.

Don't just read this and say its cool, or say its @#$$, internalize what has been said. Fatalism is a non-option. Fate is under your control. You can make the constellations, defy the tarot, and see the crystal clearer than anyone.

Let the trumpet tongued voices of love and peace chrysten us and help us to set sail on a course of goodwill, consecrating fraternity, eradicating ignorance, collectively searching for answers to common afflictions.

Ours are the hands that will shape this world.

"To A Friend"

Dear Friend, It's time for the Fun to end,
Where did the time go?
I wonder if we'll Ever know,
I remember the times
On the bus,
And running to the Bathroom between class,
Talking at our lockers, Saying,
"What's our homework?"
No one ever knew,
"What about that Vocabulary test?"
"Oh, well,
I tried the best,"
There were tears, but we Overcame our fears,
There were boyfriends
And girlfriends, That's when The fun began,
Going to games,
Cheering the team on,
Two hours later,
Everyone was gone,
Through the years
Our friendship grew,
Now it's time
For graduation,
You know how Pomp
And Circumstance goes,
Time to get that diploma, We'll each go our Separate ways,
But some things Never change, It's the end, but it's Only the beginning.

By Toni Constantino

Time

if every dreamer had his dream if every night was what it seemed This world would become a storm
No shape, size or form
Time is wasted
Time is long Time goes by Then we wonder where its gone
We daze back & regret things that did & did not happen Wondering at times how foolish we reacted What will the future hold for us?
Will we live a dreamer, or follow our dreams?

- Ariel Feierman

It's time to say farewell to the class of ninety-six!
fun times, sad times,
it's been an even mix.

They all look forward to that special day at hand, putting forth their finest efforts, maturing from child, to woman and man.

Moving on isn't always an easy thing to do, but with change comes many challenges, both frightening and new.

And thanks to their parents, educators and peers they've all acquired the skills to aid them throughout the years.
